

Abstract

Train information is distributed to a user wearing a mobile wireless device by a wireless information distribution device. The information is displayed on the mobile wireless device. The information received by the user is, for example, information about delay and suspension of trains, transfer stations, or transfer options.

10

109221-50003660